

Intimate and Personal Care with People with Learning Disabilities

Edited by Steven Carnaby and Paul Cambridge

This important guide is the first to consider the management and practice of intimate and personal care. Examining in detail a variety of issues including training, ethnicity, sexuality and competence in practice, the contributors bring their extensive practical experience to this text. Drawing on evidence from research by the editors, the book will discuss the ideas that need to be considered by carers and including the nature of touch, how physical contact is intended and experienced, duty of care and risk management.
