

A New Guide for Parents of Disabled Children

Working families is producing a brand new 'How to ...' guide for parents of disabled children about how other parents in similar positions have managed to combine paid work and caring for their children. The book will contain accounts from real parents, and will aim to be a really practical, realistic guide. Along with the interviews and photographs of the families themselves, there will be extensive information on finding support, health and education, accessing benefits and current legislation.

Email: office@workingfamilies.org.uk

Tel: 0207 253 7243